Joe Macisco, Wright State University

Joe is a public health scientist and educator who primarily studies health communication strategies to promote healthy behaviors. He teaches Artificial Intelligence for Public Health Communication, a course that shows students how to appropriately leverage AI in public health.